Every country. What do different each countries give to the world?

1 Every country in the world gives something to it.
It can be a really wide range between products from different countries. One country gives just something material: food, resources; and another gives cultural activities.

As a first example, warm countries gives ^{world} a lot of different and vary fruits: bananas, mango, dragonfruits, narakayas and many other. From countries a bit colder world gets ^{a lot of} vegetables: tomatoes, cucumbers, lettuce, onions, potatoes, corn, etc.

1 Some fruits too: apples, peaches, tangerines, oranges, melons, watermelons, strawberries and other fruits.
Also ~~we get~~ ^{they give world} farm products: all types of meat, milk, cheese, other dairy products.

6 Countries with rich resources which ~~is~~ ^{are} usually placed in colder locations give many things too: oil, gas, metals, wood, water and c minerals. They produce ~~it~~ ^{them} by collecting from Earth and everyone in ^{the} world use them, to get electricity, build new constructions,
